I see it when the moon is low, I see it when the dawn is red; A little, narrow, winding track, Where all the dreams of youth have fled. And often when the moon is full, And all the world is very still, I fancy haunted whispers come Across the bracken-covered hill. And in the sunny afternoons, Half hidden by the long, long grass, The track still keeps her secret way, Where only you and I may pass. But you who gladly went to die, And now will nevermore return Across the hill, along the track, Close covered by the bracken fern. I wonder did your smiling eyes (Ere yet they whispered you were dead) Behold a vision faint and fair - The little track you used to tread? But I - I dare not walk alone The little track we used to know; For thoughts of other days arise, And memory, with her whisper low. And calling here and whispering there, And saying, Here he...
